

Job Description

Since 2009, NexOne has been a leading provider of software with a primary focus on Real Estate Technology including, Electronic Document Management (EDM), Transaction Management (TMS), electronic signing and accounting solutions enabling Real Estate professionals the ability to manage their business efficiently while effectively reducing costs.

This position is a unique opportunity to work in a rapidly growing company.

Responsibilities

- Responsible for verifying and manually testing new changes to NexOne for each release.
- Build and maintain automated test cases to ensure the stability and safety of NexOne.
- Develop scripts for NexOne's automated deployment process to azure cloud infrastructure.
- Investigate and research new emerging technology that may improve NexOne's automated testing suite, build and deployment scripts, and source control.

Job Requirements

- Post-secondary Degree or some level of post-secondary education.
- Interested in continuous deployment for Agile development teams who deploy to cloud infrastructure.
- Experience with writing code and scripting languages like javascript and testing automated suites like Selenium.
- Smart, ambitious and interested in working, learning and growing in a startup!